ilegales A total of 18 children and young people at the centre have been formally identified as victims of trafficking and have been offered support through a victim support programme. It is important that the children and young people affected by the sexual exploitation and trafficking ring are identified and supported so that any residual harm and trauma can be addressed. The serious and complex nature of this investigation has led to the team conducting extensive investigations, surveillance, gathering of physical evidence and undertaking interviews. As a result, the majority of the findings to be released relate to the crimes committed against the victims. The resulting prosecutions are not expected to be concluded until mid-2019. The team will also continue to respond to other complex investigations and to undertake any other work to support the investigation and prosecutions. As with all investigations, all data collected and gathered in relation to the victims will be subjected to strict rules of legal advice to ensure that the data is not inappropriately used and that it is not made available in any other way than permitted by law.
